The election returns from all sections of the country continues to pour in upon us, and everywhere it is of a cheering character. The administration is routed at every point. In Rhode Island, the Democratic candidates for State offcers have been defeated, and the party has but a slight showing in either branch of the Legisla-

EThe deficiency bill was the principal subject of discussion in Congress yesterday. A full account of the proceedlags will be found under our tolegraph head. Another personal difficulty has occurred in Washington, which city is certainly winning an unenviable reputation in the way of personal affrays. In the present case an assault was committed upon the Secretary of the Interior by ac employee of the government. Sec. Thompson succeeded in disarming the man, who was somewhat injured.

The Free Soil Triumph in St. Louis-Great Cain in the Free Soil Vote. From the Mc. Democrat, April 6th.

N. S. T.

From the Mc. Democrat, April 6th.
We have to record to-day another glorious triumph of the Free Damocracy of St. Louis, over a combination of all the opposition in the City, by a majority which will range close upon twelve hundred votes. We say it is a glorious triumph, and if we consider the appliances that were used, the produgal exponditure of public monies, the various elements that were consolidated against us, and the almost superhuman exertions of our adversaries at the polls, we may safely say that a more signal victory the Free excitions of our advorances at the polls, we may safely say that a more signal victory the Kees Democracy of this city nover achieved. The vote will demonstrate that in those Wards where it was thought we should have accession from the American party, the mass of that vote was, on the contrary, united upon the opposition. The large organization of independent free companies went almost in a solid body against our ticket, and struck hands with the National Democratic, where railed all their forces under the morray, who ralled all their forces under the banner of the opposition. From the custom-bouse to the sub-treasury, from the Republican office, the Leader office, the Herald office, from all the nests of the plunder-seekers, and the haunts of the administration train bands, active partisins and silout attlems, who weekers all the nests of the plander-seckers, and the hausts of the administration train bands, active partisans, and silect strikers, wire workers, thimble riggers and political pigeon droppers trooped forth, and nothing that ingenuity could invent, or audacity could dare, was left untried. The manufacture of lies was upon a scale enormous even for the "Foundry of Lies." The appeals were made to every prejudice and every passion, and our honest contemporary of the Republican, as a lust reserve playearded Mr. Filloy as having once been a slavebolder, and presented that has reason why he should be voted against. So much for the character of the contest. It is sufficient at this late hour to say, against. So much for the character of the con-test. It is sufficient at this late hour to say, that the whole ticke has triumphed by a mag-nificent average majority of twelve hundred votes, that we have carried both branches of the votes, that we have earried both pagain in St. Dity Council, and that the free soil gain in St. Louis since April lust, when the party came in by a plurality, and failed by nearly two hundred votes of a majority, has been from fourteen to fifteen hundred votes. This is glory enough for

MILWAUKEE:

PRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 9 The Lociuse of the Rev. Mr. Staples, Notwithstanding the bad weather of Wednesday evening, a fair audience ussembled at the Church on Cass street, to bear the lecture on "Christian Culture" or, as the lecturer bianself styled it, "Theology on its way to life." The opening was a pleasant disarming of all criticism of the lecture, as an attempt to teach a model rate for bringing up children. This was not its purpose at all. The lecturer well knew that it was an easy task to make very wellbehaved boys and girls and Ideal familles, with pen and ink, that systems of education, in the study, never failed; there was always a perfect adaptation of the means to the object, which unbappily could never be realized out of the study and off of the paper. Therefore the lecturer did not assume to lay down any rules for the bringing up of children, but in a few sentences of almost passionate feeling, showed that he realized, us he said, that it was a serious thing to educate

After a few remarks which we think we did not well comprehend, and do not, therefore, dare abstract, but which we understood to be belabor ing some dectrine of total depravity, the speaks divided his subject in two branches-the beginning of a Christian life in children, and its first awakening la persons of maturer years. We understood the idea of the speaker to be that in children there is an age at the first, and he did not undertake to define it, but there is a time, when the child lives, if we may so say it, a pure spirit. The passions have not yet awaken eed, the mind has not seen evil, but lives holy in God. After this, comes the farther awakening of mind and the power of choosing and the choice between good and ovil, and here is the need of education, care and culture, that the child be so surrounded, so cultivated, that its that shone from those. choice may be of good and not of evil at all .---He did not believe that there was any stern necessity that every oblid must first be bad, must first chose evil and then be turned from his evil choice, then be plucked as a brand from the burning, but that they might grow up in such Christian culture, that they could not tell when they first choose the good, that it should be their first and only choice. He mentioned two dangers in the education of children, two extremes to be avoided equally, a premature development of the religious nature, and a neglect of it.

The speaker thought that the parent could tell whou the child needed teaching of God, when he began to have emotions of wonder and inquiry whence came the pleasures and joys which surrounded him. This was the time to teach the tender soul and lead it to the Giver of Good and the Author of Truth. He did not recommend the putting of the Bible as a whole into the hands of very young children, but thought they should be taught through their parents its touching stories, and the parables of our Lord, the wisdom of which is to be comprehended by a child and not to be exhausted by the wisest men. The speaker dwelt at length on the imgers above referred to, of premature developmont and of neglect.

He then took up the second branch of his subject, the first awakening of the Christian life in maturer minds.

He believed in a change of heart, in what may be called conversion. He defined it to be a change of purpose of life in a man. He did not believe that change of purpose changed; a man's character at once. It was the business of his life to do that. A good resolution does not make a man good. It is the keeping of it that affects the character. He believed that this change of weakest must yield. purpose, this good resolution, might be made, in a man, suddenly—at once; that it was often so, and that such change or good resolution, oltan was suggested or produced by some striking event or sudden calamity. He believed they were often made in what are called revivals; the danger at such times, is that men will mistake the change of purpose, the good resolution for the change of life, for the change of life, for the change of life, for the change of the change of life, for the change of the change of life, for the change of the change of the change of life, for the change of the purpose, this good resolution, might be made, in now, and the making gives a man strength to help him keep it.

The speaker closed with an carnest appeal to those who heard him, to examine themselves and see in which direction their lives were tending, whether upward and toward truth and God, or onward into darkness, and if they had not alroady done so, to resolve, then and there, to

Final Vote in the House on Lacompton. WASHINGTON, April 1, 1868.

Washington, April 1, 1868.

This is a day long to be remembered in Freedom's Calendar. The interest respecting the attempt to force a Slave Constitution upon Kansas, it commenced with the speech of Senator Douglas at the opening of the present session of Congress and steadily increasing in volume till now, finally culminated to day, in the test votes given in the House on the bill from the Senato.

The unclouded sun had hardly risen full-orbed over Capitol bill, ore enrious men began to wend over Capitol bill, ore enrious men began to wend their way thither. At an early hour, the vast galleries of the Chamber commenced illing up; and long before the time for the meeting of the Holes, they were crowded to their utmost cupacity by a brilliant throng; while the doors and adjacent passages were choked with eager spaculators. Many persons in the assemblage had and centre of attraction, however, was the floor of the House. For an hour before the arrival of the modical for calling to order, members were gathered in knots here and there, conversing in shoes tones of subdued carnessness the lightest the presence of subdued carnessness the lightest the presence of subdued to the second content to the content to the second content to the co

Anxiety was visible upon the countenences of all; but it was easy to determine on which side of the pending conflict individuals had ranged themselves, by the cloud of despondency that sat ou those lices, and the gleam of confidence sat on these inces, and the gleam of conducted that shows from those.

The Spanker assumed the Chair at 12 o'clock. The following hour was spent in disposing of bills on his table. At one, Mr. Stephens moved to take up the Senate bill for the admission of Kansas. No objection was made. All parties were ready for the struggle. The bill was rand through by the Clork. The question new was on reading it a second time. Mr. Giddings, calling attention to the 17th rule of the flouse, moved that "the bill be rejected." Though atfield in order, this motion is rarely made. It was now put in requisition, by an understanding with all parties, to enable the Republicans to record their votes against Lecompton "pure and simple." And who so worthy to aim this blow at the frontlet of this Great Wrong, as the man who, for twenty years on the floor of the House, has been true to Freedom? Ninety five allimative votes were given on this motion, embracing

Mr. Caruthers, of ale, the only member absent, has never been sworn in, he having been in the West Indies all winter in search of health. The name of every representative (excepting the Speaker), was recorded on every vote taken during this memorable day.

This was the extreme Southern test.

The question new recurred on Montgomery's amendment. Harris, hazarding life by his presence in the Hall, occupied his usual seat.

The mortal pallor on his cheek, and the fusble grasp he returned to many friendly greetings, but too plainly showed, that on this glorious day, the whilen conrageous leader in this goodly fight, could only follow the standard new borne slott'by his not more brave but yet more robust friend from Pennsylvania. And may not Diving Providence have deemed it meet, that this successful as allt upon the Administration of Mr. Buthanan should be headed by a man from his own State, who had aided in elevating him to own State, who had aided in elevating him to change, to set their faces the other way:

We wish again, to say that we have made no attempt to give the language of the speaker, which abounds in passages of emphasis and beauty; we have attempted simply to reproduce some of the leading ideas of the lecture as they have remained in our monory.

This lecture seemed to us, hardly so full of thought as the last, but it was overrunning with earnest feeling, and could not have falled to impress for good, those who heard it.

The passage of the bill as amended, was only a matter of form—the vote being the same as on the last division. Montgomery, having led his glorious band of followers to victory, now made the usual motion to reconsider and lay on the table, which prevailed. And thereupon the House sticourand: the galleries replying to the Speak adjourned; the galleries replying to the Speaker's amouncement of adjournment by a hearty cheer.—Cor. of Albany Journal.

From the Cleveland Herald of Friday. tossor Hudson os Oberlin Killed b the Cars.

We clin from the Review of this morning th T. B. Hudson, of Oberlin, one of the morning the saddest news which can be put on paper. Prof. T. B. Hudson, of Oberlin, one of the purest men, one of the most gifted men in Ohio, has met a distressing death. The Review says:

We bearn from Mr. Charles Calligau, of the O. Wo learn from Mr. Charles Calligau, of the O. & T. R. R. Co., who was a passenger, that the train arriving here at 9:55 last night, when near Olmstead, run over a mae, cetting off and disfiguring his head and mullating the body. The fireman, who was looking out of the cab window saw a man lying across the track, and immediately the engine was reversed, and the brakes put down, but the case were so near that this did not avail. The face was so disfigured that it was impossible to ascertain the features. The hair was black and the clothes were black. The man had also a shawl, and carried a curpot sack, in was black and the clothes were black. The man had also a shawl, and carried a curput sack, in which were long and short on velopes, writing paper &c. A purse, also found, had considerable money, and silver coins were pleked up near by. The body was brought to the Dapot; Conductor Tyler bestowing all the attention in his power.—A Ruitroad pass, we understand, was found in his pocket, having the name of Hudson, Ohio Farmer; but Mr. Usiligan is certain it was not Mr. Hudson. Conjectures as to how he came-to be lying across the track, or who be is, is, at the lute hour at which we write, useles: To day will probably determine.

tendent Simpkins of the C. & T., that the body is that of Prof. The Hudson, of Oberlin, and one of the editors of the Ohio Farmer. The Prof. iof this city yesterday evening at 61 P. M., and while at the Depot he was talking with Mr. Simpkins of the best way to get to Strongsville, &c. He was lying, when first discovered, across the track, his coat torn and he waved his hand, but as we said before, the train was too near to be stopped. Mr. S. thicks he must have endeavored to get on the O. C. & C. train and fallen, and been dragged, his coat torn off, and he disabled.

More light, we think, has been shed upon the melancholy death of Prof. Hudson. Superintendent Fint, in answer to a dispatch sent to Columbus to Condictor Hice of the train which took Prof. Hudson from this city yesterday, has received an answer which eavs:

E. S. FLINT:—Prof. Hudson came out to Columbia and Intended to go back to Berea on the mail train. imbis and intended to go back to Beren on the mail train.

The supposition now is, that Prof. H. got on the mail train from Columbus, at Columbis, to return to Bores; that at Olmstead—a station_be. tween Columbis and Berea—after the cars had started, he, perhaps having fell into a doze, woke up coulused, and supposing the cars had just started from the Berea station where he designed to stop, attempted to jump off the onrs and was eaught and injured so as to be helpless on the track. Conductor Chapman, of this train, says that Prof. H. did got on the train at Columbis and told him that he wanted to get off at Boren, to which Chapman assented, saying that the cars would stop there. Twice Prof. Hudson remarked to Chapman that he should get off at Boren. Prof. H. was in the front and of the first passenger car, there being one other car behind passenger car, there being one other car behind it. After leaving Olmstead station, when Chap-man went through the care he noticed the seat before occupied by Prof. H. was vacant, but that fact of course made no particular impression upon

& O., and the O. & T. Ballroads. His loot prints were found on the carth making short steps at first, then longer strides as firmining white holding on to the cars, and ended at a pile of iron beyond which his body was found. It, is supposed his foct struck the pile of iron, by which means his hold on the cars was lossened, when he foll under the whols. This theory is strongthened by the fact that his shawl, carpet sack, and pieces of clothing were found scattered along the track between the pile of iron and the body.

From the fact of the foot prints beginning with shorts steps and onling with long strides, it would seem that Mr. Hudson left the cars at Oinstead for some purpose and attempted to get on again soom that Mr. Hudson leit the care at Umassed for some purpose and attempted to get on again when the train was under way. Had be jumped off, the long stride would have come first. The only point against this theory is that in the case of his leaving the oars for a few minutes he would probably have left his shawl or carpet sack on the sact.

A letter was sent to Oberlin this morning by a passenger on the C. & T. cars, giving intelligence of the melanchely catastrophe. The body of the unfortunate man was placed in a coffin and taken to the store of Mr. Howland, Undertaker, on St. Clair street, in this city.

HENRY J., PARKS, Merchant.

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this, remedy is found in Consumption. Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this. Some no human aid oan reach; but even to these the Gherry Pectorut. affords, relief and comfort.

Consumptions do not deep air till you have tried Arma's GHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best modical chemists in the world, and its cures all around us bespeak the high morits of its virtues.—Philadelphia Ledger. Prepared by Dr. J. C. Duan Madan:—The reputation of the Medical Dissertry, in curing all kind of humors, is so well established by the unanimous veloc of all who have ever used it, the led not say anything on the subject, as the most still subjections and the most carefully uggints in the counry are unanimous in its reals.

I need not say any summer of the control of hydricians and the most careful Druggists in the country are unanimous in its praise.

In presenting the Medical Discovery to your notice; I do it with a full knowledge of its our sufver powers, in releving all, and curing most of those discase. to which you are unfortunately so liable. That most exeruciating disease to an affectionate mother MOUTH, it cured as if by a miracle; your own temper is restored to its natural awestess, and your bake from short and rettin lasse to calm and sweet summers; and the Medical Discovery becomes a fountain of blessings to peak hubband and household.
